3. Alternative options considered

- 3.1 Appointments to Committees are a legal function of Full Council and no alternative options are applicable.

4. Background and key issues

4.1 Appointing Committees

The rules on political balance set out in the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 apply to both scrutiny and regulatory committee composition so that, once the size of committees has been determined, the division of seats among the political groups on the Council will be automatic and the Council must appoint those members which each political group puts forward for its seats.

In considering the allocation of committee places to political groups, the Council is legally required to take into account the following principles:

- i) That the controlling group should have a majority of seats on each committee.
- ii) That the total number of committee places allocated to each political group must be in proportion to the number of members of that group on the Council.
- iii) That on each committee the number of places allocated to each political group must be in proportion to the number of members of that group on the Council.

The order of precedence of these principles is the order in which they are given - i.e. (i) takes highest priority, then (ii) then (iii).

If you choose to depart from proportionality, Full Council must not only agree, but no single Member must dissent.

Named Substitute Members of Committees

The Council (or committees in respect of sub-committees) will appoint named substitute members in respect of each political group represented on that committee or sub-committee. Two named substitute members can be appointed for groups with more than one committee member (although a Group may choose to appoint just one). The named substitute will sit in for any member of the same political group who is unable to attend a meeting.

The proportionality for both the Cambridgeshire and Peterborough Combined Authority Overview and Scrutiny Committee and the Audit and Governance Committee is set by the Combined Authority and the Council will be notified if it changes following elections on 1 May.
