Shared surface examples

Addition to paragraph 6.15 (Local Highway Authority Comments)

The Local Highway Authority also provided a briefing note for examples of flush shared surfaces within the UK. The briefing note refers to Exhibition Road in London, Granary Square in London, Port Street in Stirling, and Northampton Market.

Addition to Section 7 (Third Party Representations):

6 further third party comments have been received. All commenters had previously commented. No additional concerns have been raised, however one objector referred more to local policy.

Addition to Section 8 (Local Groups/Petitions)

Hobson's Conduit Trust supports the restoration of the Victorian Fountain although raises that any water supply would not be suitable for human consumption. Welcome the proposed decorative metal plates tracing the former course of the Hobson's water supply and the marker showing the approximate location of the original fountain.

A petition was submitted to the Council on 23rd March 2026 with 2,593 signatories on the day of submission. This is outside the Council's petition scheme and is from Change.org. It is not possible for officers to validate the signatures on Change.org petitions. The petition is not specific to planning and appears to have begun prior to the submission of the planning applications. The petition raises concerns with hot food stalls, poor demountable stalls and loss of the traditional market.

Additional paragraphs to Section 17 (Highway Safety):

Both the Local Highway Authority and the Applicant have provided examples of flush shared surfaces within the UK. These include Exhibition Road in London, Granary Square in London, Port Street in Stirling, Northampton Market, Chesterfield Market, and Kingston-upon-Thames Market.

The LHA highlighted Exhibition Road as an unsuccessful scheme highlighting it was conceived as a flagship 'shared space' scheme aimed at reducing the dominance of vehicle traffic and enabling pedestrians and vehicles to mix more freely. However, the LHA state that a report referenced by the House of Lords described this space as 'dangerous' and an 'architectural conceit'. The same report identified widespread negative public reactions, confusion among users and safety concerns arising from unclear boundaries between pedestrians and vehicular areas. Subsequent changes had to be made including the installation of bollards, placement of planters and street furniture and the increase of visual cues, barriers and controlled areas to re-establish a safer pedestrian edge and to clearly define the route that vehicles take. This was clearly an unsuccessful design. However, officers note that the movement of vehicles in this space is considerably higher than that in the Market Square and so it is not strictly comparable. In addition, a BBC report on Port Street in Stirling highlighted serious accessibility concerns raised by the Guide Dogs for the Blind Association with the charity reported taking legal advice as the scheme may not comply with disability equality obligations.

The applicant has provided Northampton Market and Chesterfield Market as successful examples. Both examples provide shared space with materials used to differentiate the space, and both spaces are classified as a pedestrian zone with vehicles only permitted for loading before 10am and after 4pm. Both projects were completed within the last couple of years. An older example provided was Kingston-upon-Thames Market which was completed in 2013. A review of the road safety shows that there have been no recorded personal injury collisions since this public realm improvement was implemented. However, the Local Highway Authority has stated that Northampton Market should not be used as a precedent as historically it has had a flush surface and lacks evidence regarding vehicle interaction or perceptions.

Additional Paragraphs to Section 21 (Accessibility)

The applicant has submitted a document regarding the testing of the accessibility of the setts. The document refers to a 2022 Idacs UK audit of the Market Square which stated that many issues identified are hazardous and the space should be risk assessed. The existing height variation between setts is 20-25mm and following the works, it would have variation of 0-8mm variation which is a considerable improvement to accessibility and safety.
