Introduction & context

This two-year plan outlines Cambridge City's delivery priorities for preventing and responding to homelessness between June 2026 and March 2028. It supports the Council's updated Homelessness and Rough Sleeping Strategy, using the strategy's six priorities as the framework for action.

The plan should be read within the context of the Greater Cambridge Housing Strategy, which sets the broader context for housing supply, affordability, social housing and access to the private rented sector. It also links to local partner arrangements led by Cambridgeshire County Council, Cambridgeshire & Peterborough Combined Authority (CPCA), the ICB and NHS partners, housing providers, the voluntary and community sector; and the Cambridge Homelessness Charter.

This plan will be delivered during a period of uncertainty and change, with the region progressing through Local Government Reorganisation and transitioning to new unitary authorities and geographical footprints. Actions and delivery areas have therefore been prioritised with this in mind, and the plan is deliberately practical and selective.

The plan should be read in conjunction with the accompanying long-term rough sleeping partnership plan, which outlines the activity addressing this specific area of homelessness in more detail, set to be published in December 2026.

Principles and values

This action plan is grounded in the local Charter to End Homelessness, including the shared ambition for Cambridge to be "a city where everyone has somewhere to call home", and to make homelessness rare, brief and non-recurring. The plan recognises the Council has statutory duties and a clear leadership role, but that ending homelessness also depends on the wider city working together around common priorities.

The Charter has six pillars of change: Data, Information, Housing, Support, Health and Employment. These pillars should guide our approach and help ensure this is a city-wide plan for prevention, recovery, independence and sustained routes out of homelessness.

The Council and partners will focus on practical action, shared ownership, lived experience, evidence, dignity and accountability. Charter partners will be invited to contribute to and own relevant actions, and the aim is to use Cambridge's civic assets in a focused way to deliver the plan's priorities.

Strategy and priorities

Cambridge City's Homelessness and Rough Sleeping Strategy is organised around six priorities. These continue to provide the framework for the city's approach to homelessness and rough sleeping, with the recent strategic review (Feb 2026) evidencing where we need to focus during the remaining years of the strategy's timeline:

Strategic priority	Prioritised review recommendation (2026 – 2028)	Rationale from the review
1. Support those at risk of homelessness to remain in their homes where possible	Pilot use of predictive analytics to identify and support early at-risk households, focused on PRS sustainment and financial shocks	The review found that Cambridge has strong crisis-response services, but that demand is increasing and prevention outcomes are inconsistent, particularly for single people and households affected by PRS insecurity, rent arrears, financial shocks and repeat presentations. Without stronger early intervention, more households are likely to reach crisis point and enter temporary accommodation or relief duties.
2. Improve access to a range of permanent accommodation 3. Minimise the use of temporary and emergency accommodation	Test a refreshed PRS access model with revised incentives, risk-sharing and clearer landlord offer	The review found that move-on options are constrained, social lettings are declining and the private rented sector is becoming harder to access. This limits the Council’s ability to prevent and relieve homelessness and creates blockages across temporary accommodation, supported housing and rough sleeping pathways. Temporary accommodation use has increased and longer stays create pressure for households, the Council and the wider homelessness system. TA pressures are closely linked to reduced prevention success, limited move-on and insufficient accommodation options for people with higher needs.
4. Improve access to and effectiveness of support services	Test enhanced homelessness prevention approaches within the Housing Related Debt Policy, including early debt resolution, affordable repayment arrangements and integrated support pathways	Lived experience research highlighted how debt and UC overpayments are barriers that stop move-on, even when people are ready. Professionals emphasised the need for flexible prevention funds and practical problem-solving to stop escalation into TA/relief.
5. Prevent rough sleeping	Embed and enhance existing discharge-to-housing pathways from prison, hospital and care settings	Rough sleeping will be addressed through a separate long-term rough sleeping plan where required, but the wider homelessness system still has a key role in preventing rough sleeping. This includes earlier intervention, stronger discharge and transition pathways, improved access to accommodation and better support for people at risk of street homelessness.

6. Break the cycle of chronic and repeat street homelessness and rough sleeping	Increase high-intensity and step-down supported housing, alongside stronger move-on pathways (e.g. tenancy sustainment)	The review identified a recognised gap in supported accommodation for people experiencing multiple disadvantage, alongside a lack of step-down and move-on options. Without this capacity, people with multiple and complex needs can remain stuck in unsuitable settings, cycle through crisis services, or be unable to move on from rough sleeping, temporary accommodation or supported housing.

A small number of additional actions have been identified to reflect national expectations and grant conditions, as well as additional local priorities or opportunities. See Annex A for full details.

Local governance, monitoring and reporting

Cambridge benefits from a mature network of homelessness partnerships, operational forums and joint working arrangements. These arrangements provide strong foundations for delivery and have been recognised as a key strength of the local system. The homelessness review also identified opportunities to strengthen strategic leadership, accountability and coordination:

Governance element	Role
Cambridge City Council Leadership Team & Cabinet Member for Safety, Wellbeing and Tackling Homelessness	Provide strategic leadership, approve priorities, oversee performance; and ensure homelessness remains a corporate priority
Homelessness Strategy Steering Group	Multi-agency strategic oversight group chaired by the Council’s Assistant Director Housing & Health. Meets quarterly and oversees delivery of Strategy and Action Plan, monitors performance against local targets, resolves barriers to delivery and promotes shared accountability across partners. Maintains formal links with the Greater Cambridge Housing Strategy governance arrangements, Health & Wellbeing Board, Community Safety Partnership, Safeguarding Partnerships and lived experience structures to ensure alignment across related strategies and programmes
Homelessness Forum/ Charter Partnership	Wider stakeholder engagement forum bringing together statutory services, housing providers, voluntary and community organisations, experts by experience and wider civic partners. Supports collaboration, challenge and shared learning
Lived Experience and Changing Futures structures	Provide challenge, insight and coproduction around service design, implementation and review, particularly for people experiencing multiple disadvantage

Governance element	Role
Streets to Home Partnership and Long-Term Rough Sleeping Partnership arrangements	Coordinate operational and strategic responses to rough sleeping, including delivery of the long-term rough sleeping partnership plan
Sub-regional and thematic partnerships	Support delivery of specific pathways and wider housing market challenges
Council scrutiny and review	Receive performance updates, review progress against targets and provide democratic accountability for delivery of the Strategy and Action Plan

Partnership working

Preventing and reducing homelessness in Cambridge depends on effective partnership working. Whilst Cambridge City Council has a clear leadership and statutory role, no single organisation can address the causes and consequences of homelessness alone.

Cambridge already benefits from a strong network of partnerships and joint working arrangements. Partners will continue to support a shift towards earlier intervention and prevention. This will include improving identification of at-risk households, strengthening referral pathways, promoting the Duty to Refer and preparing for the Duty to Collaborate; and coordinated move-on planning and tenancy sustainment. Partnership working is particularly important for people experiencing multiple disadvantage, and this is outlined further in the accompanying long-term rough sleeping partnership plan.

The Council and partners will continue to strengthen pathways for people leaving public institutions, reflecting the national ambition that nobody should leave prison, hospital or care into homelessness. Existing protocols and partnership arrangements will be reviewed and strengthened where required, with a focus on early identification, coordinated discharge planning, information sharing, accommodation pathways and ongoing support following transition. Partnership arrangements will make best use of the city’s collective resources, expertise and assets; whilst ensuring experts by experience continue to shape the design, delivery and improvement of local services.

Implementation and delivery approach

This plan uses a range of delivery/ implementation methods depending on the action:

- “Business as usual” – actions picked up during ongoing service improvement and delivery activity
- Traditional projects or task and finish groups – time-limited partnership group/ structure set up to coordinate delivery of the action and associated outcomes. May require a business case then pilot/ implementation, or could support delivery of “quick wins” in shorter timeframes
- Test and learn approach – Useful for dealing with complex, high-risk challenges where there’s uncertainty and evidence gaps. Iterative cycles of testing changes in practice, reviewing what is happening and what we are learning, then deciding what to continue, adapt, stop or scale

The table in Annex A outlines which method will be used for each action.

Local targets

This section outlines Cambridge’s local targets for improving outcomes over the course of this action plan. These have been developed using local baseline data, recent trends and comparison with similar areas, and reflect the level of ambition required to deliver meaningful improvement. The table of actions (Annex A) outline how we will work with partners to achieve these targets. The targets emphasise directional change. This ensures transparency about the scale of change expected, whilst recognising performance is influenced by wider factors beyond the control of any single organisation. Progress against these targets will be reviewed regularly as outlined in the governance section.

Cambridge will maintain a strong focus on preventing the use of Bed & Breakfast accommodation for families and will monitor usage, duration and system pressures through regular reporting. If Cambridge reaches the national threshold requiring a formal B&B Elimination Plan, or if reliance on B&B accommodation begins to increase significantly, the Council and partners will work with MHCLG advisers to develop a targeted improvement plan in line with national guidance.
